

What are divisions?

The screenshot displays the Teamware software interface. On the left is a dark sidebar with a menu containing: Startpage, Evaluations, Reports, Data pool, Templates, Master Data, Administration, Divisions (highlighted in orange), Settings, Users, and Help entries. The main content area is titled 'Divisions' and includes a search bar with the text 'Sta'. In the top right corner of the main area, there is a '+ New division' button and a 'Pro page: 25' dropdown. Below the search bar is a table with the following columns: Name ↑, Key value, Label for evaluation, Label for Test, Label for test object, and Actions. The table contains one row with the following data: Name 'Standard', Key value 'STANDARD', Label for evaluation (empty), Label for Test (empty), Label for test object 'Fahrzeug', and an edit icon in the Actions column. The bottom right of the table area shows the pagination '1 - 1 of 1 (Total: 27)'. The Teamware logo is visible in the bottom left corner of the sidebar.

Divisions help you structure your work. For example, you can create a separate division for each department in which IVA is used and thus restrict access to the planners of the respective department. Another useful way to use divisions is to divide them by product groups. For example, a division could be created for testing Beziner cars and a division for electric cars.
