Status of a test

You can change the status of a test if necessary by navigating to the test detail page. There you will see the current status of the test halfway up on the left. To the right, you will find a series of buttons that allow you to change the status of the test. Below is a brief explanation of each status.

PUBLISHED: This means that a test is live and testers can participate in it.
STOPPED: Testers can no longer participate in the test, but the status can be changed back to RELEASED at any time.
MEETING BREAK: Select this option if you have chosen an iterative approach and want to conduct a discussion of the results during the discussion break. No further participation by testers is possible during this time.
COMPLETE: If all testers have participated and you want to close the test, activate this status
