7.0 Deactivate test object

A new function has been introduced: “Deactivate test object”, which can be implemented using a toggle. A test object that is no longer available for various reasons can thus be excluded from future feedback in a test.

A test object can be deleted in the test if no results are available for it.

If results are available for a test object, it can only be archived in the data pool.

Revision #4
Created 24 May 2024 08:35:26 by vmu
Updated 5 June 2024 09:44:19 by vmu